Sensory Verbs

Understand their differences by reading the definitions and the examples.
Can you give more examples?

listen to means actively paying attention to and focusing on the sounds you hear.

hear means perceiving sound without trying to understand or pay attention to it.

see means simply perceiving visual information without actively observing or paying attention.

look means directing your eyes towards something and paying attention to it visually.

watch means looking at something for a longer period of time, usually because there is an ongoing action or event.

e.g.

I was listening to a CD and didn't notice other things.

e.g.

I heard a loud sound when I was listening to music.

e.g.

I saw your sister in the shopping mall yesterday.

e.g.

Look at me and tell me the truth.

e.g.

I don't feel like watching the football game tonight.
